Sunset Concert Series 2023

A social story for families visiting the Sunset Concert Series with young children on the autism spectrum.

I am planning to go to the Sunset Concert Series at Centennial Park.

If we drive to the event, we will park on surrounding streets, Centennial Park, Usher Park, the City of Kalgoorlie-Boulder staff carpark or the overflow carpark.

There is lots of space to park.

After we park the car, it will only be a short walk to Centennial Park.

There will be lots of music and people around so sometimes it could be noisy.

If I have headphones, I could bring them with me and put them on if it gets too noisy.

Food trucks might be selling food so there will be lots of smells, some I might like and some I might not like.

If I don't like the smells I can walk away and sit somewhere else.

There could be some bright, flashing lights or smoke while the bands perform. I can look away if I do not like them.

There may even be roving entertainment or activities throughout the event.

Sometimes I might have to wait my turn while other children are doing the activity.

I could play with the giant bubbles and foam...

... or hula hoops!!

If I have a problem or I can't find my friends or family, I can ask for help from the Events Team.

They will be wearing pink or yellow vests.

I can also ask for help at the Lost Child Point.

I just need to look for the sign that says Lost Child Point. It is where the St John Ambulance team will be.

Thank you for reading!
